3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

The prior art does not teach the cart as recited in claims 1 and 30, which include an actuator having a proximal end and a distal end. The actuator proximal end is being received in a housing and connected to an elongated tongue inner end. The actuator distal end is being disposed laterally outward from the housing and a base structure so as to be a position that is accessible for an operator on a first side of the base structure. The housing having a bottom wall having a roller opening formed therein, wherein a first roller is mounted to the bottom wall and at least partially extends through the roller opening and wherein a second roller is mounted to a tongue and wherein the tongue is movably supported above the bottom wall of the housing by the first and second rollers. This recitation, in combination with the rest of the recited elements, clearly defines over the prior art.
